Course overview

This practical course aims to provide students with an introduction to issues connected with learning, teaching, training and assessment of adults in a supportive environment. Participants are asked to prepare a short presentation as well as using self and peer evaluation.

Course description

If you would like to be able to teach or train students, colleagues or others, this course is for you. This is a practical course covering some key skills including: planning and preparing sessions; initial and diagnostic assessment; curriculum planning; managing a classroom. This interactive online course explores the role and responsibilities of teachers and trainers and how to prepare sessions. Participants explore how to give feedback and how to feed forward. We examine case studies and discuss different teaching and training approaches. We also explore theories and models as well as ethical frameworks. Participants will prepare a short presentation and use peer and self-evaluation to reflect on their own practice.

What financial support is available?

We don't want anything to stand in your way when it comes to bringing Adult learning within reach so if you need anything to support you to achieve your goals then speak to one of our education experts during your enrolment journey. Most of our courses are government funded but if you don't qualify or need alternative financial help to access them then let us know.

What other support is available?

All of our digital content, teaching and learning activities and assessments are designed to be accessible so if you need any additional support you can discuss this with the education experts during your enrolment journey and we will do all we can to make sure you have optimal access.
