Organising your personal budget and understanding your outgoings is the first step towards healthy financial well-being. And the good news is - budgeting is a skill anyone can learn. This budgeting course is right for you if you want to improve your financial well-being. Whether you're trying to cope with the cost of living crisis or just want to plan your finances better, this course can help you.

Course description

"From Skint to Savvy: Improving Your Relationship with Money" is designed to help you take control of your finances and develop a healthier relationship with money. This course covers essential topics such as budgeting, saving, debt management, and financial planning. You do not need advanced maths skills to take this course. It is appropriate for complete beginners, so don't worry if this is new to you.

You'll start by understanding your current financial situation and identifying spending patterns. The course provides tools and techniques for creating and maintaining a realistic budget, tracking expenses, and setting financial goals. Learn effective strategies for saving money, reducing debt, and managing credit wisely.

In addition to practical financial skills, the course addresses the psychological aspects of money management, helping you recognise and change unhealthy financial behaviours. Through interactive activities, real-life case studies, and expert insights, you'll gain confidence in making informed financial decisions.

By the end of the course, you'll be equipped with the knowledge and skills to build a secure financial future. Whether you're looking to get out of debt, save for a major purchase, or simply improve your day-to-day money management, "From Skint to Savvy" provides the guidance and support you need to achieve your financial goals and become financially savvy
