Course overview

Learn the essentials of supporting individuals with special educational needs and disabilities (SEND) with our Heath and Social Care: Introduction to SEND for Support Workers course. Gain the knowledge and skills needed to provide effective support. Ideal for support workers and caregivers.

Course description

Health and Social Care: Introduction to SEND for Support Workers is designed to help support workers and caregivers develop the knowledge and skills needed to work effectively with individuals who have special educational needs and disabilities (SEND). This course covers the basics of SEND, including understanding different types of disabilities, legal frameworks, and best practices for providing support. Participants will learn how to assess the needs of individuals with SEND, develop personalized support plans, and implement strategies that promote inclusion and independence. The course includes case studies, practical exercises, and discussions that encourage participants to reflect on their own practice and apply new learning in their work. By the end of the course, participants will have a solid foundation in SEND and be better equipped to provide compassionate and effective support to individuals with disabilities. This course is ideal for support workers, caregivers, and anyone working with individuals with SEND.
