Course overview

The course is for learners who need support with English and who want to pass the Driving Theory test. Our course is friendly and a safe environment to ask questions. You will help each other to learn and practice through informal activities and discussions, helping you to develop your understanding and confidence. There will be an enrolment/assessment session on 18th March at 12.30 at Millan Centre, 89 Victor Street. BD9 4RA . This is a women-only centre. You must attend this enrolment session to make sure this is the right course for you. If this is your first WEA course, please bring ID and proof of benefit or low wage if you wish to claim fee waiver. This course is funded by West Yorkshire Combined Authority.

Course description

In many parts of the UK a driving licence and access to a car can give you more options for jobs, your family's education and many leisure activities. If English is not your first language, then this course will introduce you to some of the important skills and knowledge to improve your confidence with the English language, pass your driving theory test and gain understanding about the UK road system and rules.

We will introduce the rules and regulations of driving and the Highway Code.

You will need access to a laptop or smartphone and to the internet to access learning materials. Laptops are provided for use at the centre.

You will also need a copy of the Highway Code in booklet form (cost £10). Please bring this to the first session if possible.

You will also need to be working at a minimum of Entry 2 English to participate in this course but you do not need a certificate or qualification of any kind. We will carry out a quick informal assessment at the enrolment day (18th March) so we can make sure you are applying for the right course. This is part 1 of a longer course.

Please enrolment separately for part 2 onwards.

What financial support is available?
