Course overview

The course is for learners who need support with English and who want to pass the Driving Theory test. This is part 2 of a longer course and you should have attended and completed part 1. Our course is friendly and a safe environment to ask questions. You will help each other to learn and practice through informal activities and discussions, helping you to develop your understanding and confidence. It is held in a women-only centre in Bradford. This course is funded by West Yorkshire Combined Authority.

Course description

In many parts of the UK, a driving licence and access to a car can give you more options for jobs, your family's education and many leisure activities. If English is not your first language, then this course will introduce you to some of the important skills and knowledge to improve your confidence with the English language, pass your driving theory test and gain understanding about the UK road system and rules.

You will need access to a laptop or smartphone and to the internet to access learning materials. Laptops are provided for use at the centre.

You will also need a copy of the Highway Code in booklet form (cost £10). Please bring this to the every session.

You also need to be working at a minimum of Entry 2 English to participate in this course but you do not need a certificate or qualification of any kind. The tutor will tell you if this course is suitable for you and can direct you to alternative courses to help improve your English language skills.
