Course description

In this lip-reading course, you will gain valuable skills to enhance your communication abilities. You will learn to identify key lip movements associated with different sounds, enabling you to attempt spoken words more accurately. You will also discover practical strategies to improve your lip-reading skills in everyday situations, such as adjusting your seating position and utilising visual cues.

Furthermore, you will explore the importance of effective communication and learn how to apply these principles in your interactions with others. Additionally, you will be introduced to technology tools that can assist you in emergency situations, such as emergency alert systems and mobile apps.

By the end of this course, you will be better equipped to confidently engage in conversations and overcome communication challenges.

The course is only open for referred patients from the Audiology Department who fund these courses.
