Course overview

This course will explore artefacts from across time and civilisations, all displaying a common factor - that they have a (what can usually be described as human) face. This course is funded by the Education Skills and Funding Agency.

Course description

We will look at a range of artefacts, including portraits and sculpture, made from different materials from a variety of places and periods, and ask questions such as what / who was the artefact for and how was it made? During the sessions we will also consider the insight it can give us into the person depicted and if that extends to the wider society. Where possible we will discuss the 'life' that the actual artefact has had, and any associated research. The examples in this course will range from small images of faces, through to full body sculpture.

What financial support is available?

We don't want anything to stand in your way when it comes to bringing Adult learning within reach so if you need anything to support you to achieve your goals then speak to one of our education experts during your enrolment journey. Most of our courses are government funded but if you don't qualify or need alternative financial help to access them then let us know.

What other support is available?

All of our digital content, teaching and learning activities and assessments are designed to be accessible so if you need any additional support you can discuss this with the education experts during your enrolment journey and we will do all we can to make sure you have optimal access.
